New Year — New Center

We begin 2019 with high hopes and expectations in our new home. The culmination of years of planning, HMEA has combined four family support programs and a new Center Based ABA Center under one roof. Our Center has been a support for families with members on the spectrum for over 21 years now. The children of the families who began the Center, petitioning DDS to fund a Center for Central Massachusetts are now adults. As they grew, the services at the Center grew with them as well. Initially funded to serve families raising children on the spectrum, the Center continues to be a source of information and support for adults on the spectrum and their parents, and will continue to grow to meet the needs of the families we serve. As a founding member of Advocates for Autism Of Massachusetts, we’ve been part of the effort to influence policy changes which have improved the lives of those on the spectrum, creating the autism waiver for low income children, giving families access to insurance coverage for treatment, expanding the criteria for services from DDS for adults with ASD who have normal cognition and creating an autism commission to continue to advise the Governor and influence policy.

Under the same roof we have two other family support programs, Intensive Flexible Family Supports (IFFS) which is a closed referral program funded by DDS to help families in crisis with intensive case management. Over the years, IFFS staff and Center staff have shared resources and collaborated to help families. The Massachusetts Families Organizing for Change program, for Central Massachusetts, supported by HMEA is also housed in the new Center. Many of our families have participated in the Family Leadership Program over the years and become effective advocates for change.

With the opening of HMEA ABA Center, also at 712 Plantation Street, we have the ability to see forty families leave wait lists and begin receiving evidence based treatment for autism. An Indoor Sensory Gym is part of the Center made possible by a donation of equipment from Sensibility Gym when they closed their doors. Many years ago the Center helped Sensibility Gym with a grant for starting up and they in turn thought of us as they closed. An outdoor playground will be built soon, as well. With this new Center families will have one stop for treatment, support and education. We aim to make Central Massachusetts the best place to live for families affected by Autism.

This winter HMEA’s Autism Resource Central will offer a parent training course on Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) for parents of children with Autism. ABA is a research based approach that has been shown to be effective in the education and treatment of children. Parents who attend will gain an understanding of the basic concepts and principles of ABA, and how these are applied in the treatment and education of children with autism. Parents will work with the instructor to identify a behavior to shape, create a program to address the behavior and implement the program. Topics will include:

What is ABA?

ABA and Effective Treatment Programs

Basic Concepts and Principles of ABA

Using ABA to teach

Using ABA to address problematic behavior

The class format is intended to provide parents with ample opportunity to discuss and apply what they are learning to their child, and to assist them in understanding how they can be effective in doing so.

Class schedule: Monday Evenings 7-9 PM February 4, 11, 25th, March 4, & 11th Snow date March 15th

Class location: Autism Resource Central

Instructor: Stacee Hansen BCBA Director of HMEA Children’s Services

Included in your registration is the supplemental text: Raising a Child with Autism: A Guide to ABA for Parents

FAMILY FUN & FITNESS

Just last week yet another study was released on obesity and autism. To address this we are partnering again with Adaptive Exercise LLC to provide a six week group exercise program this winter. David Crowley, is a special educator and personal trainer. Adaptive Exercise was formed in accordance with the American Council on Exercise using Applied Behavior Analysis based strategies. Programming is individualized and developed based on assessments, to ensure client success, and establish positive exercise experiences. And it is fun! David provides the adaptive PE at The Darnell school. Classes will take place on Monday evenings from 6:00-7:00 PM beginning on January 7th and ending on February 25th. There will be no class on MLK Day and Monday of February Vacation. Classes will take place at the Center, 712 Plantation Street in Worcester. Fee $30.00/pp In case of snow we will reschedule in March.

THE PLAY’S THE THING

This fall we launched our new program geared to older teens and adults. We promised a holiday show for this season. The Hanover Theater is once again, presenting Dickens’ classic, A Christmas Carol. Those interested in attending this production on December 15th at 2 PM should notify Cid DeLeo BEFORE December 4th and we will procure 10% off group rate tickets at $42.70 for adults and $24.00 for students (if available, we need at least 10 people to get a group rate.) A reminder that the aim is to attend with the general public and not attend “sensory friendly” productions.

One Family’s Experience - Sally Lampi

Eric and I would like to share a story about our young adult son, Pat, who was diagnosed on the spectrum when he was four. Pat is about to turn 21 and graduated from high school in 2016. He decided that college was not for him, and a few months after graduation he began to work as a temp in the Shipping department at Eric’s company. Although he is fortunate to be working there part-time still, he is aware that he needs to find “his niche” and has been unsure of what to do with his life.

To try to help him, we suggested post-graduate learning of some sort, but Pat had a notion that continuing education meant long, boring programs, sitting in classrooms, and scribbling notes during lectures. To help him understand that continuing ed classes are not necessarily the same as “school”, I suggested that we take a one-session class together, since Pat is not driving yet, and I would need to drive him back and forth anyway. When we got the Assabet After Dark brochure, we chose the “How to Be a Voiceover Talent” class in April, and had a blast.

The woman who led the class has a studio in Wellesley (as well as one in NY and one in Miami), and invited us to participate in her weekly Improv Mania class (on a drop-in basis). We did that a few times (lots of fun) and she then told us she was working with a young adult on the spectrum to put on a theater production with both neurotypical people and some on the spectrum – a VERY diverse group. To our surprise, Pat signed up and began practicing/rehearsing in August. On November 15, 16 & 17, Pat performed in a production that was written by several cast members (Pat chose not to be part of the writing team) called “Show Me Your Story, I’ll Show You Mine”. The play was based on life experiences and had an adult theme. The stories were ones that many of us have experienced and were very relatable. Although he was extremely stressed-out the entire week before the first performance, Pat did a great job. Even if he hadn’t done well, we would have been very happy that he tried something new and stuck with it to the end.

Next month we will be traveling with Pat and a group of others from the studio to New York to a Voice Over Pro event, where Pat will receive intensive coaching and may possibly be practicing in front of industry agents. This is also out of Pat’s comfort zone, but a little less so, since it will just be his voice and not his entire body plus his voice on display.

Back in the days when Pat was young and having meltdowns several times a week, we never would have imagined that he would be able to hold himself together through the stress of learning lines, taking direction, and performing in front of a live audience. However, we’ve learned never to set limits on Pat, and he is showing us that he is capable of much
Does your family include someone with a developmental disability?

When a family includes a child with special needs, parenting becomes even more of a challenge. There are no manuals and finding the help that is available becomes a full-time job. Nobody has time for THAT! Learn how to navigate the system, receive assistance with applications, connect with others facing similar challenges, and give your other children the chance to explore their feelings about the difference in their family while having fun by participating in a Sibshop!

Through a grant from the Massachusetts Developmental Disability Council, HMEA’s Autism Resource Central will bring this program to your Community Health Center and help you get a footing for the road forward. With the right supports your family can achieve more, feel the confidence that comes with knowledge, and experience less stress.

* This program is open to all with a child diagnosed with a developmental delay, not just autism.

Floortime® for Parents

HMEA’s Autism Resource Central, in conjunction with the Astra Foundation will once again be offering a course on DIR®/Floortime for Parents, starting in March and running through to May.

DIR® is an abbreviation for Developmental, Individual Differences, Relationship-based. DIR® is a model, a framework, for thinking about a child’s complete development, from infancy into whole joyful personhood. While DIR® can be a helpful way to think about any child’s development, it is particularly useful in working with children with developmental delays.

In this course, we’ll discuss the basic principles of DIR®, and learn about Floortime, a strategic, emotion-driven way of playing and interacting with a child that helps a child initiate and respond at higher and higher developmental levels. We’ll also discuss the importance of understanding each child’s unique sensory profile and how to incorporate this knowledge into Floortime sessions.

Participants will be provided with a copy of The Child with Special Needs as part of their registration fee. Due to popular demand, this course will include the opportunity for parents to have 1:1 consultation with their child with instructor Sarah Measures on two separate dates as the program progresses.

The Course will take place at the Autism Resource Central on Wednesday Evenings.

Course Dates are as follows: Wednesdays from 7 PM —9PM : March 27th, April 3rd, April 24th, May 1st, May 8th & May 15th

Mentoring Dates will be Saturdays, April 6th and May 4th

To register complete the form below and return with your registration fee to the Autism Resource Central, or register online.
